What is Malaysia's first large-scale green hydrogen production project?

Malaysian company Semarak Renewable Energy (RE) and China Hydropower (Malaysia), a subsidiary of PowerChina, have signed an agreement to develop Malaysia's first large-scale green hydrogen production project using floating photovoltaic power generation. The agreement is worth a total of MYR1.88 billion (approximately $398 million).

Will Semarak re & China hydropower develop Malaysia's first green hydrogen production project?

Semarak RE and China Hydropower to develop Malaysia's first large-scale green hydrogen production project using floating PV power generation.

What is the synergy between floating photovoltaics and green hydrogen production?

The synergy between floating photovoltaics and green hydrogen production positions the project as a trailblazer in integrating diverse clean energy solutions. The comprehensive scope of the venture encompasses the design, procurement, and construction of floating photovoltaic systems, hydrogen production units, and storage facilities.

Who is Sarawak's first hydrogen refuelling station?

During his secondment to Sarawak Energy Bhd in 2018, he developed Southeast Asia's first hydrogen production and refuelling station, while simultaneously formulating the Hydrogen Economic Blueprint for the state.

Can powerchina help Semarak in the green hydrogen industry?

PowerChina's expertise in the new energy sector aims to expedite the project, supporting Semarak in leading Malaysia's green hydrogen industry. PowerChina, present in the Malaysian market since 1993, boasts a track record of over 150 projects exceeding US$7 billion in contract value.

Why should Malaysia invest in green hydrogen?

In Malaysia, these efforts are aligned with the government's active role in promoting green hydrogen to accelerate climate action and reduce greenhouse gas emissions through the development of policies and regulations to support the sector's growth and attract investments.
