Zimbabwe High Frequency Uninterruptible Power Supply Specifications

Overview

What is the technical specification for an uninterrupted power supply (UPS)?

In this article, we will learn the technical specification for an uninterrupted power supply (UPS) electrical system used in industries. UPS should be designed and constructed in accordance with IEC 62040. All the components should be mounted in an indoor, floor-mounted, metal enclosed panel with enclosure protection IP 42.

Which type of main circuit switch should be complied with IEC 60947-3?

Mechanical type main circuit switches shall be in accordance with IEC 60947-3. Main circuit switches shall comply with utilization category AC22 and DC22 for AC and DC switches respectively in accordance with IEC 60947-3. Main circuit breakers and isolation switches shall be manually operated and air-break type for uninterrupted duty.

What happens if the input frequency exceeds synchronization limits?

If variation in the input frequency exceeds the defined synchronization limits, the inverter shall revert to free-running (non-synchronous) operation. The UPS and associated equipment and components shall be packed to protect against damage during transportation.

What if the AC input power supply is below allowable limits?

Alarm and trip functions shall be provided in accordance with Table 6 as a minimum. In case the AC input power supply falls below allowable limits, the rectifier shall shut down. b When the AC input power supply resumes and remains within allowable limits, the rectifier shall start automatically and no reset is required.

How many Hz can a synchronizing frequency range be changed?

The rate of change of frequency is not to exceed 0.1 Hz per second. The unit shall be provided with an internal switch so that the synchronizing frequency range can be changed from +3 Hz to +1 Hz or to +0.5 Hz.
